Researchers said that freedoms and human rights are two slogans used nowadays in the majority of media advertisements. During a ceremony managed by the director of Sheikh Zayed Book Award, Tunisian author, Mustafa Al Kilani, said that the freedom project is currently not stable in Arab Islamic World.

"The freedom project is currently not stable in Arab Islamic World. It's like a soap bubble floating in the air."

In conclusion, it's clear that freedom and human rights are not as stable as they are made out to be. They are more like soap bubbles that will eventually burst. This is a concerning trend that needs to be addressed in the Arab Islamic World.
